some canonical texts and 32 according to others) the choice collection of the forms of the first deity in Hinduism, neatly displayed at 6, Kasturi Estates, Madras-600086, are refreshing from the artistic angle.

Leading galleries like "Poompuhar", the VTI and some private collectors, have lent valuable specimens which considerably enrich the show. The wood carvings are neat, while the glass figures shimmer in the light. Particularly impressive are the two standing figures in welded copper sheet metal, by P. V. Janakiram.

Jointly organised by the Crafts Council of India and the Contemporary Arts and Crafts (Madras), the exhibition will be on view till Sept. 16, daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Ganesa in bronze, wood, metal and painting

Of the numerous manifestations of Ganesa, Vigneswara or Vignaraja (64 according to

The Hindu/13-09-1985/21